

Introducing RxVP Panels

A bundled partnership package combining Celebration Days programming with Emerging Markets leadership insight.

Twelve virtual panels, each offered across multiple time zones, designed for employees who want firsthand access to senior life sciences leaders.

Each 60-minute event features vice president-level and above speakers who provide insight into leadership journeys, market trends, and potential career paths. Every session includes 30 minutes of live Q&A to encourage audience engagement.

Based on 2025-2026 industry data, about 69% of pharmaceutical employees report being engaged and generally satisfied with their careers. Satisfaction with learning and development opportunities is less consistent, with some indicators suggesting that fewer than one-third of employees across sectors are satisfied with these offerings.

PARTNERSHIP PACKAGE

Emerging Markets Series

Panels featuring vice president-level and above speakers from key emerging markets.

Employees gain regional leadership perspective and a clearer view of the trends shaping growth markets.

These sessions are designed to surface industry priorities, market context, and leadership lessons from China, India, Japan, Brazil, and Saudi Arabia.

SEPTEMBER 2026

China

The world's second-largest pharmaceutical market and third-largest medical device market, with strong demand for talent and continued production growth.

OCTOBER 2026

Japan

The world's fourth-largest pharmaceutical market, with continued strategic importance in the global industry.

NOVEMBER 2026

India

Projected to grow by 200%-250% by 2030, reaching $130 billion, and expected to remain a leading market for pharmaceutical employment and production.

JANUARY 2027

Brazil

Growth is driven by expanded universal healthcare access through SUS, rising middle-class healthcare spending, and increased focus on rare diseases.

FEBRUARY 2027

Saudi Arabia

Growth is driven by the Vision 2030 initiative and major healthcare privatization efforts.
